Brackenhurst Campus

Brackenhurst Campus is located within 500 acres of beautiful Nottinghamshire countryside, bursting with greenery, woodlands and water creating the perfect rural setting for conferences, meetings and events.

The historic Brackenhurst Hall, overlooking the lake boasts beautiful lawns for outdoor receptions, marquees and team building events. By contrast the Bramley Building has purpose built modern classrooms and the Veterinary Centre has a unique combination of laboratories and classrooms.

In January 2021, Brackenhurst will open the doors to the Lyth Building, boasting a 200-seater retractable lecture theatre, exhibition space, dining and drinks reception areas and a range of teaching rooms suited for meetings and breakout space. The Lyth Building is set to become a flagship venue in the rural sector.

Brackenhurst Campus is home to Nottingham Trent University's School of Animal, Rural and Environmental Sciences. It is the ideal partner for organisations supporting these industries looking to host meetings and conferences, or to present their products and services within a lecture theatre, exhibition space, classroom environment or outdoors.
